Dr. Nicole M. Guidotti-Hernández
Associate Professor of American Studies at the University of Texas at Austin

Graduate Student Workshop and Lunch

October 14, 2013
UCSD Cross-Cultural Center
Comunidad Room
12:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Nicole M. Guidotti-Hernández is Associate Professor of American Studies at the University of Texas at Austin. She is also the Associate Director of the Center for Mexican American Studies. Her articles “Reading Violence, Making Chicana Subjectivities” appeared in Techno/futuros: Genealogies, Power, Desire (2007), edited by Nancy Raquel Mirabal and Agustin Lao-Montes, and “Dora the Explorer, Constructing “Latinidades” and the Politics of Global Citizenship” appeared in Latino Studies (Summer 2007). Her book Unspeakable Violence: Remapping U.S. and Mexican National Imaginaries was published by Duke University Press in 2011. She is also a former Post-Doctoral Fellow at the Center for Race, Politics and Culture at the University of Chicago and William J. Fulbright Post-Doctoral Fellow the UNAM in Mexico City. Professor Guidotti-Hernández is at work on two new books: ¡Santa Lucia! Contemporary Chicana and Latina Cultural Reinterpretations of Saint Iconographies and Red Devils and Railroads: Race, Gender and Capitalism in the Transnational Nineteenth Century Mexico Borderlands.

Dr. Guidotti-Hernández’s research and teaching interests include US/Third World Feminisms, Transnational Feminisms, Critical Race Studies, Chicana/o/Latina/o Studies, Borderlands History and American Studies. She also served as director of the Tepotzlan Institute for Transnational History of the Americas from 2009-2011 and is a regular contributor to the feminist magazine Ms.

During this lunch workshop, Dr. Guidotti-Hernández will be discussing her academic experience and will provide insight into issues of academic professionalization. All graduate students are welcome to attend. Lunch will be provided.