Child Development: California State University, Sacramento invites applications for a tenure track position in Child Development at the Assistant Professor rank beginning Fall 2020. Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Child Development, Human Development, Applied Developmental Psychology, Developmental Psychology, Developmental Science, Early Childhood Education, Educational Psychology, Psychology, or an equivalent program (ABD considered – all degree requirements must be completed by August 2020). Candidates must demonstrate a strong background in developmental theory and research methods (quantitative and/or qualitative); a focus or emphasis in a specific research domain in child and/or adolescent development; and knowledge of and experience working with children, adolescents, students and/or families from diverse backgrounds. Students in our department come from diverse academic, ethnic, and socioeconomic backgrounds; faculty and staff are committed to equity and diversity programs that ensure student success in our disciplines. The Child Development Program faculty prefer applicants who have a clearly defined program of research and demonstrated success in research and scholarly activities; personal characteristics evidencing leadership potential and strong interpersonal skills in a multicultural environment; research experience with diverse populations; a strong background in application of developmental theory to specific settings (e.g., education, family, community), and who demonstrate experience and effectiveness in college level, undergraduate and/or graduate level teaching.

Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in Child and adolescent Development; maintaining a rigorous program of research; supervising and sponsoring student scholarship; assisting with advising and curriculum development and assessment; working collegially with other faculty in a multicultural environment; and contributing to service in the program, college, university, and community. Salary is dependent upon qualifications and professional experience.

To apply, submit 1) a cover letter describing interest and qualifications for this position; 2) a current curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy (that incorporates a diverse perspective in teaching) and recent data on teaching effectiveness or teaching portfolio if available; 4) a statement of research interests; 5) a diversity statement; 6) a writing sample (e.g., a recent publication); 7) the names and contact information of three references who can speak to the candidate’s professional qualifications (no letters required); 8) unofficial transcripts of all graduate-level work (official copies required if offered the position). Screening of applications to begin on January 10, 2020. Position is open until filled. California State University, Sacramento is an employer with a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity in all areas https://www.csus.edu/diversity-inclusion/. Applications are only accepted through the California State University, Sacramento jobs website located at https://csus.peopleadmin.com/. A/EEO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal) required.